

CANADA'S JUDICIAL REVIEWS V. FIRST NATIONS CHILDREN

BACKGROUND

Canada has filed for judicial review (appeal) of two of the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal orders.

1 One providing human rights compensation to eligible victims (many of whom are still children).

2 The other ensuring First Nations children recognized by their Nations are eligible for Jordan's Principle.

In both cases they want the orders quashed. All of the Tribunal orders as well as the parties' legal submissions (factums) relevant to Canada's two appeals being heard by the Federal Court are posted on the timeline of <https://fncaringsociety.com/i-am-witness>

Watch the webcast

Members of the public can register to view the webcast of the hearings free of charge at:
http://cas-satj.zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_Tho-AGIATNGMCnby_talHA

When

The hearings will begin at 9:30 EDT daily and will continue for approximately 4-5 hours each day with a lunch break.

Caring Society legal counsel and barrister

The Caring Society is represented by Sarah Clarke, David Taylor, Anne Levesque, David Wilson and Spirit Bear (twitter @SpiritBear).

CANADA'S JUDICIAL REVIEWS AND ORDER ARGUMENTS

T-1621-19: Judicial review of the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal order on compensation of victims of Canada's discriminatory provision of First Nations child and family services and Jordan's Principle.

JUNE 14, 2021 Attorney General of Canada
Caring Society

JUNE 15, 2021 Caring Society continued

JUNE 16, 2021 Assembly of First Nations
Chiefs of Ontario
Nishnawbe Aski Nation
Amnesty International
Canadian Human Rights Commission
Attorney General of Canada reply

JUNE 17, 2021 Attorney General of Canada reply continued
AM

T-1559-20: Judicial Review to overturn the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal order 2020 CHRT 36 ensuring First Nations children residing off reserve who are recognized by their Nations are eligible for Jordan's Principle regardless of Indian Act status.

JUNE 17, 2021 Attorney General of Canada
Caring Society

JUNE 18, 2021 Assembly of First Nations
Chiefs of Ontario
Nishnawbe Aski Nation
Congress of Aboriginal Peoples
Amnesty International
Canadian Human Rights Commission
Attorney General of Canada reply